PRESS RELEASE

Ethics Commission Clears Pandemic Case Backlog

CARSON CITY, NEVADA (March 28, 2022) – On March 16, the Nevada Commission on Ethics held a public meeting; the meeting included the following highlights:

- Detailed update on Ethics Commission case status log including upcoming adjudicatory hearings and confirmation that the backlog caused in part by the COVID-19 pandemic has been cleared
- Update on the budget building process
- Special Presentation about the Commission's Jurisdiction, what constitutes an ethics violation, and what remedies the Commission has for violations.

In addition, a three-person Commission Review Panel issued a Review Panel determination for the following complaint:

In re Schieve (Case No. 21-081C), City of Reno Mayor

Determination: Dismissal with confidential letter of instruction

The next meeting of Nevada's Commission on Ethics is April 20 in Las Vegas. The Commission's Legislative Subcommittee will also meet that day to review the legislative process and Commission Legislative Priorities for the 2023 Legislative Session.
